WorkSource Everett doubles computer count in remodel, announces grand opening

June 17, 2010 (Everett, WA) —WorkSource Snohomish County and Workforce Development Council Snohomish County are pleased to announce a Grand Opening for the new WorkSource Everett center. The event will be held on June 17, 2010 from 10:00 am to 12:00 noon at the Everett Train Station at 3201 Smith Ave in Everett.

Everett Mayor Ray Stephanson, Snohomish County Executive Aaron Reardon, and Washington State Employment Security Commissioner Karen Lee will be cutting the ribbon to officially open the new Resource Center and WorkSource classrooms and offices.

Tours of the new facility will be given following the ceremony.

The grand opening celebrates the relocation of WorkSource Everett to the third floor of the train station. The relocation has allowed the Resource Center to be redesigned, enhancing the layout of the facility and allowing for better customer flow.

Additionally, the relocation has allowed WorkSource Everett to nearly double the amount of computers available for customers to use in their job search.

“We’re so thrilled with the new space,” exclaims Julie Lord, Area Director for WorkSource Snohomish County. “With the added computers in the Resource Center, we’ve been able to reduce or eliminate customer wait times. It’s really making a difference.”
